Last week was the Pennsylvania General Election. This coincided with elections across the country. Here in Pennsylvania and Montgomery County, we elected the following offices:

United States Senator, Pennsylvania Governor and Lieutenant Governor, Representatives to Congress, all State Representatives, and half of the seats in the Pennsylvania Senate.

These were the major party candidates for statewide races.

The Democratic candidates won all of the statewide races:

US Senator John Fetterman, (D) who won, and Republican candidate Mehmet Oz, (R) Governor and Lieutenant Governor Josh Shapiro and Austin Davis (D) who won, and Doug Mastriano and Carrie Lewis DelRosso (R).

Both the Democrats and the Republicans in Montgomery County held on to the State Representative and State Senate seats they had before the election.

In Montgomery County, about 68% of the 607,031 registered voters voted - 412,256 total votes cast.
